

Free School Talks!

Are animals treated fairly?
Should we ever harm animals?
Do animals have rights?

The way humans treat animals is a thought-provoking subject which always sparks discussion and debate among students. Our volunteer school speakers deliver free talks on animal rights and related issues to help bring the curriculum to life.

Topics include:

- ✓ General animal rights
- ✓ Veganism
- ✓ The environmental impact of animal farming
- ✓ Pressure groups
- ✓ Animal experiments

A typical session includes:

- ✓ An engaging presentation
- ✓ A short film
- ✓ A group activity
- ✓ A Q&A session

Our speakers are trained to use a sensitive, discussion-led approach.

Your students will be given the opportunity to develop and apply their critical thinking skills by expressing their own views and asking questions.

Talks usually take place in a classroom, but we can deliver talks to larger groups on request. If we don't have a speaker in your area (or if you are outside the UK), we can arrange a remote talk via Zoom or Teams.

Our talks and resources are suitable for years 7 to 13 and align with the National Curriculum. We tailor each session to suit your students' needs, and all materials will be shared with you in advance for your approval.

Our films are produced in collaboration with teachers and are designed to be engaging and suitable for young people: animalaid.org.uk/educationfilms

I felt the tone of the talk was perfect for students. Lots of insights and information to help students make changes to their lifestyle and spending habits to improve the welfare of animals.
